ST. LOUIS TEAM BUNCHES HITS OFF PITCHER M'JAMES.

Superbas' Lead Reduced to 58 Points, as the Quakers Seat the Reds-New York Defeats Pittsburg and Louisville Takes Eighth Piace—Baseball News and Notes. The Brooklyn team lost another game yesterday, the St. Louis experts outplaying Hanlon's men and also bunching hits off Pitcher McJames. As the Philadelphias defeated the Cincinnatis, the lead of the Superbas was reduced 58 points. The New Yorks won handily from the Pittsburgs, who also surrendered eighth place to the Louisvilles, the latter capturing a double-header from the Washingtons. Baltimore profited at the expense of the Clevelands and gained a few points on the Bostons, whose game with the Chicagos was prevented by wet grounds. The

ST. LOUIS, 5; BROOKLYN, 3.

The Brooklyn team is in critical shape, and unless Dahlen and Daly get back into the game before the week ends the pennant chances of the Superbas may be materially lessened. Yesterday, with these valuable players on the hospital list, the Brooklyns were defeated by Tebeau's reorganized St. Louis team. which is a pretty fast combination just Wrigley played a beautiful game for the Brooklyns, but Beck at second base fell below the required standard. Hanlon's men lost several opportunities to make runs by not adhering to the scientific principles of batting which the men have followed all the season. McJames was effective except in one inning, when the visitors bunched enough hard hits to win out. The St. Louis team backed up Cuppy in fine style, and toward the close he was invincible. As Umpire Latham ordered the players to begin the ninth inning Tebeau's men began to kick. They wanted to have play called on account of darkness. O'Connor was the most conspicuous rowdy of the lot, his language bordering on the obscene. Tebeau, himself, indulged in the hoodlumism which has disgraced Frank DeHass Robinson and served to kill the game in Cleveland, With a man on first and one out in the first half of the ninth Latham decided to end the game because of darkness, and called it then and there. NEW YORK, 5; PITTSBURG, 1.

For a change the New York players were in a histiling moed and, with the exception of Gleason's fumbles in the first inning, played a fast game against the Pittsburgs at the Polo Grounds vesterday. The visitors backed up their pitcher without a flaw, but Gray was an easy mark for the local players, who, however, could not bring their hits together until the fourth inning, when a base on balls, Woodruff's pretty bunt. Van Haltren's single and O'Brien's two-bagger brought in three runs, enough to win the game. The New Yorks bunched three more hits in the seventh inning, which scored two men. Both of the new Yorks played well, especially Fleming, who covered considerable ground. His best play was a throw to Warner in the second inning, which nipped McCreery at the plate. In this inning the Pittsburgs touched up Carrick for three hits and one man was sent to first base. three hits and one man was sent to first base on balls, but the visiting players failed to get a man across the rubber. The same thing n man across the rubber. The si

Brooklyn's New Players. The Brooklyn club, following the liberal policy that has characterized the management all season, purchased vesterday the releases of Shortstop Wrigley and Catcher Steelman from the Syracuse club of the Eastern League This move, while legitimate, is expected to This move, while legitimate, is expected to cause a howl of protest from the New York and Louisville clubs. Wrigley and Steelman finished the Eastern League season with Syracuse and were formally reserved. The New York club, informed by President Young that it had a right to play Wrigley during the balance of the National League season, secured that player and for the past week he has been covering third base for the Harlem team. The Louisville club acted similarly in the case of Steelman, but both clubs, it seems, were wrongly advised by Young. Article 17 of the National agreement reads as follows:

No club shall at any time enter into negotiations No club shall at any time enter into negotiation or contract with any player under contract to or reservation by another club without the latter, consent, under such fines and penalties as the National Board may indict.

consent, unler such nies and penalties as the National Board may inflict.

According to this rule. New York and Louisville had no right to the services of the players mentioned and President P. T. Powers of the Eastern League protested to the managers of these clubs, incidentally calling attention to violation of the National agreement. Powers had been asked by the Syracuse club to act as its attorner in the matter, and when he was notified by the Brooklyn club that Wrigley and Steelman were wanted he was compelled to take action. He notified Manager Hoey and Serestary Knowles of the New York club on Monday that the Brooklyns wanted Wrigley, and gave the New York club first chance to buy that player's release. As Freedman is not buying bail players these days it is unnecessary to state that Powers's offer was promptly turned down. There was nothing left for Patrick to do then but to order Wrigley to report to the Brooklyn club yeasterday in return for $500 cash paid for his release. Steelman was also ordered to come here at once under the same conditions.

Von der Horst on the New League. H. R. Von der Horst, director of both the Brooklyn and Baltimore clubs, arrived in town yesterday after an extended stay with Mc Graw's team. "What do you know about the new league?"

asked THE SUN man. "What league?" asked Von der Horst, laughing. "Not that paper and ink league? Why, I know nothing except that I read in the paper to-day that the promoters are now hunting for capital. As far as Baltimore is concerned, you can say for me that if the so called new league intends to invade that city, called new league intends to invade that city, it will have a hard road to travel. As I own half of the ground upon which Union Park is located, they cannot get that diamond without first seeing me. It is also a fact that while McGraw and Robinson have both been approached with offers to desert the National League, both have positively refused to have anything to do with this fly-by-night venture. It is simply a case of building up a bugaboo on wind, and I venture to predict that the alleged new league will never play a game of hall. The players had one sad experience in the Brotherhood year, and I do not believe they would care to take another such chance. Good salaries are paid now, but in the event of a baseball war the players would be the first to suffer." suffer."

Von der Horst says he believes the twelve-olub

Baseball Notes.

The Philadelphia Club has signed Pitcher Al Maul. It is reported that a deal may be completed in which one ir two New York players will be traded to Pittaburg in exchange for Bowerman. Ten of the fourteen games played between the Pittsburgs and Bostons were won by the latter players, who scored 70 runs against 50 for Donovan's

New London, Sept. 12.—The Connecticut Baseball League has finished its season with all the teams except New Haven and Bridgeport and possibly Waterbury, in debt. New Haven has been reported to have $1,500 to the good at the close of the season, but one of its directors says that if $1,500 is split he will be eatisfied. Bridgeport has a very small balance of profit.

KID M'COY POSTS $1,000.

Pounds or Catchweights. Kid McCoy took steps yesterday to bring about a fight with Bob Fitzsimmons by posting $1,000. McCoy is determined on getting on a match with the tormer champion at 158 pounds, but Tailing in this he will agree to a battle at catchweights. McCoy's plan is to let the money remain for one month. Should Fitz ignore him it is the Kid's intention at the expiration of that time to claim the middle-weight title of champion by default. Then he will agree to a mili at catehweights. "I think this fair," said McCoy yesterday. "I am entitled to fight him and money talks, and if Fitz-simmons refuses to give me an audience, the public will readily see who is at fault. "Asregards Tommy Hyan, he knows I can not get down to 154 pounds. But 108 pounds will suit me and if he carest to give his friends the impression that he is not bluffing let him cover my $1.000 and I will fight him before I tackle Fitz although I admit I should like a slice of Bob's game first." the money remain for one month. William A. Brady announced last night that the Coney Island, Lenox and Broadway boxing clubs have reached a mutual agreement whereby they will work in harmony in the future. Brady said that he had agreed to transfer all of the coming international fights, including those between Jordan and Sautry.
Dixon and Curley, and Wear and Bernstein, to the Lenox Club. He stated that the JeffriesSharkey fight, and any other heavyweight contest of similar innertance, would be decided at Coney Island, and that the regular Monday night entertainments would continue through the winter.

It was arranged yesterday to transfer the international match between Ben Jordan of England and Eddie Santry of Chicago from Coney Island to the Lenex A.C. It appears that the Lenex Club had first claim on Santry's services and as this would leave Jordan without a worthy opponent the club by the sea consented to the transfer. The battle will probably be held on Oct. 8.

MISS YATMAN COLLAPSED.

FINISHED HER SEVEN "CENTURIES IN A PITIABLE CONDITION. The Last Twenty-five Miles of the Wheel-

woman's Task an Awful Torture-She Had Been Silently Suffering Almost From the Start-Says She'll Be All Right Soon. Miss Jane C. Yatman of 215 East 115th street, New York, finished her self-imposed task of riding 700 miles in continuous century fashion at Valley Stream L. I., at 4 o'clock yes terday morning. In nerves and vigor she was a wreck when she ended the long journey awheel. She rode the last forty-five miles under the protest of every sense she had and completed what she had undertaken only because friends urged her on. Her condition was not due to the last century nor the last half of it. It was not the exertion of riding nor the strain on the nerves that caused her collapse. It was a stomach trouble, such as might have attacked a big, athletic man when he was doing nothing except loaf about his home, that caused her to change from s bright, strong and cheery young woman at 7 P. M., to a feverish, detirious one at 10:30 In this condition, through a pounding rain, over slippery roads, under the imperious guidance of friends, and falsely borne up by stimulants, Miss Yatman attained the objef ambition of her life, and completed a ride of 100 more miles over the road than any woman ever did before. The elapsed time of her ride was eighty-one hours and five minutes. According to the rules of the Century Road Club of America, under which she rode, it was neces sary for her to make the distance in eighty-four was, therefore, two hours and fifty-five minutes ahead of her schedule at the finish in spite o her condition. The best previous record was six hundred miles in the full time of seventytwo hours, made by Mrs. Jane Lindsay on

It was a minute or two before the officially fixed time of 4 A. M. that a woman on a wheel who could be recognized as Miss Yatman only because of prior knowledge and information rode up to the hotel at Valley Stream, where her headquarters had been since last Saturday night. Her sprightliness and individuality were lost like those of a beautifully curled ostrich feather after a dip in the surf. She was lank, forlorn, bedraggled and gibbering. On each side of her was a friendly member of the Century Road Club, who kept close in order to eatch her should she fall. On one side was Paul Thomas, and on the other William Whitman, while shead rode W. E. Tucker and at the rear H. J. Genrich. She was assisted from her wheel and she stepped to the ground with a hysterical little laugh. She was led around the corner of the hotel, and there, in the darkness, was picked up bodily and carried up a rear stairway to where a hot bath was being ness, was picked up bodily and carried up a rear stairway to where a hot bath was being prepared.

For this spectacle the score of enthusiastic road riders and the few who had travelled through the rain from the neighborhood cheered loudy. Roman candles, green and red fire and cannon crackers were set off. The readway blazed with pyrotechnics, while upstairs the young woman raved in a fever, and finally went to sleep, pencil in hand while trying to make her last registry on the hotel book, where she had been signing her name every twenty miles since she started her long journet.

What happened to Miss Yatman was due to self neglect consequent upon her independence. She scorted the ordinary care of a trainer or handler that athletes employ. She thought she could ride seven centuries in eighty-four hours. She left her place of business one afternoon and started out a few hours later to satisfy herself in her opinion, without engaging any man or woman to systematically advise and instruct her. She took the advice of the score and more experienced century riders who were very willing to help her so far as setting nees and giving what they thought was good advice. The advice conflicted and the stomach trouble which caused her collapse was one from which she suffered in silence from the beginning of her ride. It was only when it was too late for aid that she told an intimate friend, Mrs. Limeberner, of her affliction.

As stated yesterday, Miss Yatman finished 615 miles in fine style. She was strong enough to be romeing. She was not only rational but witty. She then said to a reporter of The Sun that she was riding easier because she was free from the anxietr that she had before she had passed the old rea reporter of THE SUN that she was reding easier because he was free from the anxiety that she had before she had passed the old record of 1600 miles. It is probable that this relaxation of nervous force allowed her physical aliment to assert itself. At 035 miles she began to be freiful. She wanted rest and was fusay. She drank a quart of ice water in and had an "angrythirat." At 035 miles with were not completed until 10:20, she was in a condition that made it speculative whether she would finish the seventh century, to say nothing of riding still another, as it had been intended. The worst period was that in which the last twenty-five miles were ridden. She arrived at the hotel, which constituted her only stopping place, and again made a long stopping place, and again and stopping place, and again and stopping place, and again aga

ON THE SPEEDWAY.

Visitors to Speedway Park yesterday afternoon just missed witnessing a brush between two rival trotters which would have set the whole road brigade talking. Charley Mell, baying read in THE SUN that Alves 2:00 %, outfooted Frank Work's $5,700 road horse Pilot Boy, 2:00%, in a brush one day last week, was on hand with the jaunty gray trotter to dispute up later in the afternoon, but before Nathan Straus, his driver, learned that Pilot Boy was on the Speedway, he had taken the edge off his Grand Circuit winner in a series of brushes with Toga, 2:24%, and had sent him home n charge of the faithful Thomas, expressed a wish to try it over again with the two 2:10 trotters at some future day, whereupon the owner of Alves agreed to be on hand o-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock for another much over weight, will doubtless entrust the driving of Pilot Boy to Trainer Mell, who is about half a mile. Mr. Straus and Trainer Mell do not agree as to the first brush. Mell said yesterday that Aives got off eight lengths in front of Pilot Boy, and that the gray horse was lapped on the bay Mr. Straus says Alves turned ahead but was at the end of the brush. On the other hand, Mr. Straus says Alves turned ahead but was slow to get awar at speed, so that Pilot Boy overtook him and was on eventerms, or nearly see, by the time both trotters had struck their clip.

Alves found a rival that forced him to stretch his neck yesterday when he was turned in company with the big-gaited bay gedding Toga. 2:24 \( \), by Wicking, the son of George Wilkes. Trainer Andy Wilkinson was driving the horse to an old high-wheel wagon, when Alves came upon him going up the road near Washington Bridge. In a nifty the two trotters were stepping it off toward Dyckman street at a furious rate. Alves broke before the first furiong had been covered and the brush ended in a fluke. Jorging up to the bend Mr. Straus and Trainer Wilkinson turned their horses for another go. This time they stuck to their work and a spirited coatest for the lead ensued. Alves had the advantage of a pneumatic wagon, but this was to some extent offset by Toga's professional driver. For nearly half a mile the two horses trotted almost like a team. Aloes showing slightly in front. Toga was all the time striking the axis of Wilkinson's wagon, his action behind being away out from under him like that of a duck swimming. This finally caused him to break and Aloes went on alone. Although Toga has no record below 2:24 \( \), he has long been known as one of the speedlest trotters in town. When he was in training at Fleetwood Park three years age Frei Noble drove him a half or two right around the 1:05 mark.

Fleetwood Park three years ago Fred Noble drove him a half or two right around the 1:05 mark.

The feature of yesterday's sport was a sharp brush between A L Kerker's speedy chestnut pacer, Atateka, by Lambertus, and Col. F. N. Lawrence's newly-matched trotting team, Tipwaid, 2:21%, by Redwaid, and Lottie, by Look, the son of Nutwood. Col. Lawrence carried two men in a heavy, high-wheel runabour, while the paser pulled a light pneumatic wagon. By courtesy of Mr. Kerker, toe team got off two lengths in front, headed northward, from Washington Bridge. Atateka has stepped quarters in 0:32%, but the team kept him busy from the start. The veteran road rider who drove the trotters, coaxed them along with a touch on the reins as soft as a troutlisher's, and they moved together like one horse, striking a 2:15 gait or better. Atateka was four or five lengths in the rear when the team was at its best. Then Lottle began to waver slightly and the speedy pacer to gain until his nose was at Tipwaid's sadde place. Neither driver would cry enough, although to waver slightly and the speedy pacer to gain until his nose was at Tipwall's saddle place. Neither driver would cry enough, although they were nearing the end of the road, where a rail fence closes Dyekman street. On they went until they were less than fifty yards from the obstruction before either driver would draw rein. The mounted officer who stood at the roadside waved his arm for them to rull up, thinking they did not see the fence ahead.

Col. Lawrence started the new role team in a brush with Cobwels a lew dars ago. The boss of the Speedway out-trotted them, but Nathan Straus said yesterday that he had to sit down and drive the chestnut horse for all he was worth to do it.

"I think we were going at a 2:10 gait," said the owner of Cobwels. "I am sure Col. Lawrence's team can trot a quarter 0:33 or better any day."

The new team are lengthy, rangy, breedy-looking chestnuts of line size and style. The wald is by Redwald, the son of Lord Russell, who was a full brother to Maud S. 2:08%. The horse was bred by Morris J. Jones, who formerly owned the champion trotter Alix. 2:03%. Lettie is a white-faced, white-foots dehestnut mare that Col. Lawrence purchased a comple of weeks ago up in central New York, where she was raised.

Bryant School A. A. Elect Officers.

The Athletic Association of Bryant School met at 702 East 140th street yesterday afternoon and elected the following officers for the Vice-President, Sigmund Aaron; Second Vice-President, Herman Machlels: Third VicePresident, Charles Block: Secretary, Morris Keller: Treasurer, Herman Kurhen. It was decided not to piace a football team in the field owing to lack of proper material. The popular feeling at the school is for basketball and nandball and in both these lines of sports strong teams will be developed as practice will begin at once. Track athletics will be supported and ateam will be entered in the indoor games. This being the first year in athleties it was decided to lay the matter in regard to joining the New York Inter-Scholastic Athletic Association over until next season.
It is not unlikely that a team will be entered in the Inter-Scholastic Chess Association tournament. A house tournament will be arranged in a few days and those making the best showing will be selected to represent the school.

There was just a puff of wind and no sun when Dr. Webber atepped to the score for his first trial. On the second and third targets the wind blew up quite strongly and the declar got only 8 of 10 pessible builts-eyes. On the fourth target 9 "erea" were recorded and the fifth was perfect. The sixth target was 9 out of 10, the second card was, two shy of the perfect mark, the eighth and high target 1 shy, or 9 out of 10. Hendoran, Peep o'Day and two others failed to turn out for the highweight handicap first on the card. This upset the form players and they began plunging in erratic fashion on Biarneystone, J. A. The handicar for all ages, at one mile and a half, which followed the Willow Stakes, proved a very difficult problem, although only four candidates accepted. Three were backed on almost could terms, while the odd one. Spurs, also had a following. Semper Ego finally closed a slight favorite, and he pulled his backers through is good style. O'Leary rated him along behind the others to the stretch, where he let him down in carnest, and the big son of Logic won out by a length from Latson. The fallent made a bold attempt of double unon the fifth event, but the "good thing," Bold Knight, was lucky in making a dead heat with Mynheer. It was a close finish all around, Oread, Dunblane. BILLIARDS.

Schnefer and Slosson Matched to Play 900 Points, Cushion Carems. Dick Roche, representing Jake Schaefer. called at George Slosson's billiard rooms, 948 Broadway, last night, and a billiard match between the two great experts was quickly arranged. It was agreed to play at Madison Square Garden Concert Hall on Monday, Tues-day and Wednesday evenings, Oct. 30, 31 and Nov. 1, for $500 a side, with the privilege of increasing this sum to $1,000 a side. The game will consist of 100 points up, cushion caroms, 300 points each evening, on a 5x10 of the house after defraying the expenses. Articles of agreement will be signed to-day covering all details, and a preliminary forfeit will be placed in the hands of "Honest" John Kelly, who has been selected to net as stake Maurice Daly returned a few days ago from a three months' trip to England and the Continent. He has begun practice and says he may enter any tournaments that may be arranged this year, especially in the cushion ranged this year, especially in the cushion carom line. He reports that there is very little doing in the billiard line abroad. The French experts are all playing the three-cushion game and do not seem to care for any other. Daily thinks Vignaux could be induced to pay snother visit to this country now that lives is dead. Vignaux was always afraid of lives, but thinks he can defeat either Schaefer or Slosson at most any style of game. Daily thought some of bringing Kerkau, the German champion, each with him, but after seeing him play he found the German had not improved in his game since his visit here two or three years ago. Daily will hold an amateur tournament this year if a sufficient number of good players will enter.

The second annual billiard tournament under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Union will be held next winter. The Knickerbocker A. C. will run the affair and Dr. A. R. Ranney of that club will again have charge of the details. Dr. Ranney made a great success of last season's event and predicts a similar result of next winter's affair. There will be tournaments for class A and B players.

The attendance at the various billiard rooms is beginning to pick up and a spell of cold weather will set things booming for the winter. carom line. He reports that there is very little
